Learn about pollinator habitat in March 22 program

CHARLEMONT — The Hawlemont Agriculture and You (HAY) program will host a presentation on Saturday, March 22, detailing what residents can do to help pollinators thrive. The event will be at 10 a.m at Hawlemont Regional School.

Native plant expert Amy Meltzer will discuss the biodiversity crisis and the importance of providing habitat for pollinators to maintain a sustainable ecosystem. Attendees will learn about different native plants and how to support a biodiverse landscape.

Tickets are $20. To register, contact HAY teacher Jennifer Sinistore by email at jsinistore@mtrsd.org.
